

Figure S4: Comparison of specificity for identifying normal regions in simulated tumor samples.

Specificity is calculated by using the unaltered region in simulated tumor SNP arrays, and results are illustrated for comparing the performance in identifying non-aberration regions with respect to increasing normal cell contamination levels. Different lines correspond to the accuracies for GIANT (blue), ASCAT (red) and OncoSNP (yellow).